#TestingTour

Testing Tour

To tackle my challenge of how to become a better skilled tester, I decided to go on a testing tour in 2018, from January until end of October. I paired with many different people, from other teams of my company as well as our global community, to learn with and from each other. Some sessions were collocated, most of them remote, they took at least 90 minutes each and afterwards I blogged about our lessons learned.

Had a really nice #TestingTour session with @lki_kviki today, exploring mind maps of test ideas and generating even more 😊 Thank you Viki for the lovely experience exchange!
